

International Press Coverage of Spies Tour

Retired Air Force intelligence officer Carol S. Bessette stops at "Drop Site FLO," a bridge in McLean, Virginia. FBI counter-intelligence agent and convicted spy Robert Hassen would tape envelopes containing documents or computer disks under the bridge where members of the KGB would later retrieve them, leaving the payment of money or diamonds taped beneath the same bridge.

SPYSOMETHINGFUN
Former intelligence officer leads tours of espionage sites.

A 'Spook'-y Tour of Region's Espionage Sites

From: SUN GAZETTE, Jun 3, 1999

From AAA World, Mar-Apr 2005

"On the trail of espionage agents"
Washington Times, April 24, 1996

"Washington, D.C.: on the trail of notorious spies"
Boston Sunday Globe, June 3, 2001

"Picking up the trail of Washington spies"
Baltimore Sun, August 13, 2000

"Spies & Sleuths"
ATA Inflight Magazine, Jul/Aug/Sep 2007

From German Travel Magazine "GEO SAISON", Jan 2012
"WASHINGTON SPIONAGETRIP Eine frühere CIA-Agentin führt Besucher zu Orten, an denen sich KGB und CIA bespitzelten."

The scoop on spies

Andrew Harnik/Examiner
Carol Bessette, who will be leading a spy tour on Saturday, stands Thursday at the famous mailbox that former CIA double agent Aldrich Ames used to signal the Soviets in Georgetown.

The Washington Examiner
June 24, 2005

"Psssssssst! Auf den Spuren von Agenten durch Washington, der Hauptstadt der Geheimdienste"
Süddeutsche Zeitung,
Jan 19, 2006

